

ADAC Cyclassics also inspire in winter: Current rate almost fully booked

On August 17, the ADAC Cyclassics will once again attract more than 10,000 cyclists to Hamburg. The Elbe metropolis provides the backdrop for Germany's biggest cycling event. The 28th edition of the Cyclassics is once again a hit: the entry fees were quickly booked out and only a few starting places are still available in the current PELOTON price category. If you want to take part cheaply in summer, you have to be quick in winter.

The Cyclassics experience currently starts at just 85 euros. However, there are only a few starting places left at this low price, as the current PELOTON rate will soon be sold out. As soon as the contingent is exhausted, registration will switch to the next rate group. Starting places can be booked at fan-friendly and transparent fixed prices at www.cyclassics-hamburg.de. Booking and processing fees are a thing of the past.

A recommendation for all cycling fans who want to experience more: The DUO rate is the current favorite at the ADAC Cyclassics. Taking part as a pair is more fun, gives a safe feeling and even saves money. If you book two starting places, you get a discount. All information at www.cyclassics-hamburg.de.

There will also be the "Cyclassics 60" and the "Cyclassics 100" in 2025. With the two attractive routes, both ambitious athletes and amateur athletes planning their racing debut will get their money's worth. Closed routes and an unforgettable atmosphere make the ADAC Cyclassics an unforgettable experience. The highlight for everyone is the finale, which awaits in the middle of Hamburg's city center after the Elbchaussee and Reeperbahn.
